It was meant to be

In 2004, Sara Bedillion convinced her husband Mark to get their first hive of bees. It must have been all that sweet talk about honey that persuaded him! What started as just another experiment in farming became Bedillion Honey Farm and a family livelihood. Today, with their children, the Bedillions continue to grow their colony numbers and their skills in sustainable beekeeping, offering the delicious local Pennsylvania honeys their bees produce as well as the very best varietal honeys from beekeepers throughout the US. In addition to honey production, the Bedillions raise honeybees for sale and offer the supplies and knowledge for new beekeepers to start their own hives. The bees keep them buzzing, but it's a sweet life.
